About this event | How to fix the Building Act Summit

The VAGO Report made some fairly damning observations about building control in Victoria. The Building Act has served the state well for nigh on 20 years but is in need of some renovation. This critical summit will focus on areas of the legislation that are in dire need of amendment. The forum will provide attendees the opportunity to hear from prominent industry stake holders and law reformers on ways by which the act can be brought into line. Comments and opinions will also be collected from the Summit into a synopsis of recommendations to convey to the government for its consideration.

Who should attend

With the industry becoming multi-disciplined it is imperative that all Building Surveyors attend this important event. All Building Practitioners are welcome and do not have to be AIBS Members to attend.

Industry colleagues such as council risk managers, fire engineers, builders, construction insurers, construction lawyers, architects, engineers, consumer advocates, statutory decision makers, members of governance jurisdictions, civil servants in government and local government are also welcome to attend.

The Chairperson

Kim Lovegrove Partner Lovegrove Solicitors and Conjoint Professor with University of Newcastle in Building Regulation and Certification was the key legal advisor on the development of the building act and is the immediate past chairman of the Building Practitioners Board Victoria.

The Panel

Justin Cotton is head of Practitioner Advocacy at LS and is a preeminent authority on the building act.

Con Giazi is President of the AIBS Victorian Chapter and is a Private Building Surveyor. He is currently on the Building Practitioners Board (BPB) as an AIBS representative

Gil King is Chief Executive of the housing Industry Association VIC and prior to this was the director of compliance at the Building Commission.
